

Career Goals

It is a very exciting time to be an instructional technologist. After completing my M.S. in Instructional Technology degree in May of 2007 I plan on seeking a position at a college or university that gives me the opportunity to grow and continue to learn. I have a strong interest in distance learning that I would like to continue to explore. I also enjoy designing and developing instruction; and teaching others to effectively use technology to compliment their educational endeavors.
