The Domain of Management
MIT Competencies	Job Qualifications	Artifacts	Rationale
Plan, create, monitor, and facilitate instructional design projects	Provide day-to-day leadership in project management to deliver instructional projects on time and on budget.	MIT 510 • Phases of Development MIT 520 • Work Breakdown Schedule	These products represent my ability to manage instructional design projects from beginning to end.
Organize the instructional project or service unit to operate effectively and efficiently	Track and monitor project execution, regularly updating project plans and status reports, to ensure the project is completed on time.	MIT 510 • Gantt Chart MIT 520 • Work Breakdown Schedule Risk	These products represent my ability to plan and monitor an instructional design project, including an implementation time line, budget and resources.
Manage personnel and facilities	Provide, track and monitor project resources and personnel management.	MIT 520 • Development Team MIT 510 • Phases of Development	These products represent my ability to manage personnel and facilities during the ID process.
Plan and implement organizational change	Creates implementation or action plans to successfully implement change within a system.	MIT 522 • Project Implementation Plan MIT 530 • Change Management plan	These products are examples of my ability to plan and implement organizational change within a system.